ADDITIONAL DESCRIPTION:

1. Foundations: This Self-Study module is to be completed prior to attending either one or both of the face-to-face sessions. Topics covered in the Foundations include: Benefits planning, overview of competencies needed for quality services, cultural diversity, customer service, history of vocational rehabilitation, history of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act, orientation to supported employment, career development and person-centered planning. Each of the nine Units contain readings, activities and assignments. The assignments, when completed, are sent to the mentor assigned to the participant for review.

2. Job Development—Face to face training session: This 2-day training session, is specifically titled, A Business Orientation to Job Development, to highlight the focus on a business model, not unique to rehabilitation. Topics covered in this session include: community job market surveys, developing a referral system, the feature-advantage-benefit approach, initial contact methods, employer survey techniques, developing hiring proposals, and handling objections.

3. Job Coaching—Face to face training session: This 2-day training session is specifically titled, Job Coaching: Supporting People on the Job. Topics covered in this session include natural supports—what they are and how to use them, the importance of work place culture, balancing natural supports and individual needs, systematic instruction, self-management strategies, social skills supports, and positive behavior supports.

After completing all three components of the training and all required fieldwork, trainees will earn an ACRE Basic Employment Certificate. The names of all participants earning the Certificate will be placed on the ACRE website.

Supported Employment 101 The work of an employment professional is so much more than “one job.” An array of skills are necessary to do well and be successful. (see back)

CERTIFICATE(S) OFFERED

- Basic Employment
- Basic - Customized
- Professional Employment
- Professional - Customized

Networks for Training

ADDITIONAL DESCRIPTION:

Employment professionals need to be competent in all phases of the employment process, from the assessment or discovery phase through to the fading and follow along phase. Each requires a variety of skills and knowledge, with a big dose of people skills being of utmost importance as well. The most successful employment professionals connect well with people with disabilities, can assess an individual's interests, desires and skills, seek out the best possible job match, support the individual on the job and establish natural supports in such a way that the person can be successful on the job independently or with limited supports. These are only the primary roles of an employment professional. A variety of other "duties as assigned" are typically required in order for a person with a disability to become successfully employed. A great employment professional has the ability to do it all.

Networks for Training and Development, Inc. has offered Supported Employment 101 (SE 101) for many years. Given the increasing demands to do more with less, it has been difficult for employment professionals, who are so critical to success for people on the job, to attend training. Networks' current ACRE endorsed course, Supported Employment 101, is now a 40 hour course, offered synchronously with sixteen two hour synchronous sessions and one hour a week of asynchronous learning (eight weeks in total). Our asynchronous option includes eight modules of learning, discussion board activity, fieldwork and a final project. All content is on Networks online portal. There is a requirement of two synchronous live mentor calls with instructors to discuss course content. Homework and fieldwork that may be billable to specific individuals will be required of each participant between sessions. The goal of this course is to enable job coaches and other employment professionals to do their jobs well and to provide them with the necessary tools and strategies they need to be successful in their role. We do this through interactive live online meetings, asynchronous learning, an online discussion board, hands-on fieldwork, and individualized mentoring with each participant between sessions.

(see additional sheet)

Networks for Training

ADDITIONAL DESCRIPTION:

Detailed Course Objectives

- By participating in the Supported Employment 101 course, attendees will:
- Reflect on personal beliefs about persons with disabilities and employment
- Gain a solid foundation in an array of best practices in employment supports
- Learn about the numerous organizations and services that support employment of people with disabilities from a local and national perspective
- Become informed about up to date policy changes that impact employment services

Description of ACRE Training: (structure of training, modules, etc.)

Advance your expertise in supporting meaningful employment for job seekers through this virtual, self-paced certification course. Designed for professionals who are passionate about fostering inclusive, sustainable employment opportunities. Engaging online modules guide learners through substantive content to deepen their understanding of Employment First principles and equip them with practical, person-centered approaches to job development. Learners will gain the skills needed to implement best practices in supported employment, including customized employment and self-employment, which ultimately support people in living self-determined lives aligned with their individual goals and values. The course also emphasizes the role that enabling technology can play in increasing autonomy in the workplace. The Experiential Learning Project (ELP) provides learners with an opportunity to reflect on their own practices and enhance their learning by applying job development principles to a comprehensive case study. With ongoing support throughout the journey, participants complete the modules within 90 days of enrollment, investing an average of 40 hours to earn certification.

ADDITIONAL DESCRIPTION:

With open enrollment and flexible scheduling, participants may begin the course at any time and complete modules at their own pace. The curriculum emphasizes developing strong partnerships with local employers, understanding the principles of customized employment, and applying best practices in job development, coaching, and long-term supports. In addition, the training addresses the core competencies covered by APSE's Certified Employment Support Professional (CESP) exam, helping learners build both confidence and professional credibility. Through engaging online modules, practical activities, and scenario-based learning, participants will gain the knowledge and skills needed to support individuals with barriers to employment in achieving meaningful, sustainable work, and upon completion will receive a nationally recognized, competency-based ACRE Certificate in Employment Services.
